BEEHIVE POTTERY STUDIO

Did you know there's a new Pottery Studio in Heber City?

Beehive Pottery Studio, run by Angie Andrews, is a lively spot for creative fun. With over 30 years in the arts, Angie has dabbled in graphic design, photography, woodworking, and now pottery. Though pottery is new for her, she's eager to share and build a place buzzing with creativity.

The studio offers various classes, from five-week courses to quick 90-minute sessions, hand-building classes, and date night throwing. You can join as a member, use open studio time, host group events, or book private parties. They also offer kiln firing, paint-your-own pottery, and sell custom pottery. Whether you're just starting or already skilled, there's something there for everyone.

Beehive Pottery Studio is perfect for trying something new, hanging out with loved ones, or just relaxing. Angie loves art, especially pottery, because it's soothing and meditative. Her goal is to provide a welcoming space for everyone.

Since opening, the studio has received great feedback and Angie plans to expand with more creative options. With an open-door policy, everyone is welcome to visit, learn, create, or check out the finished pieces for sale.
